Relationship Property / Family Lawyer

ON OFFER

- Sought after, medium sized firm
- Approachable supervisors
- Career progression
- Supportive and friendly team

If you are a capable family lawyer who has already gained solid experience, then we'd like to hear from you. Join our successful medium sized law firm working primarily with private clients and small to medium sized businesses. Our family team needs another lawyer.

We would ideally prefer if you had already gained four or five years' family law experience, however we're open to considering your application if you have a minimum of two years' PQE. Working closely with an Associate who is approachable and ready to supervise, you will possess an ability to work autonomously on files and with clients. You'll be a team player, enthusiastic, dependable and technically competent.

With a focus on relationship property work, you will be involved with a broad range of family law work including contracting out agreements, protection of property rights, separation, custody and access, adoption and care of children. You will work with existing clients and develop those relationships. At the same time you will have an appreciation of the need to develop and nurture your own sources of referrals and a willingness to be involved in (and in some cases lead) business development initiatives, with the support of our Associate and Partners.

This is a great opportunity for an applicant with experience, enthusiasm and initiative to join a well structured firm that values its clients and its staff. The role requires a commitment to excellence and attention to detail. We encourage and expect honesty, integrity and high standards. In return we provide great working conditions, a supportive environment, up to date technology and a great opportunity for career progression.

Corcoran French is a reputable medium sized law firm with offices in Christchurch City and Kaiapoi in North Canterbury. We employ approximately 50 staff across both offices.
